152.13 Sign Measurement.

1. The following criteria shall be used in measuring a sign to determine compliance with this chapter:
 - A. Area of a Sign. Area of a sign is the area within any perimeter which encloses the limits of any writing, representation, emblem, figure or character. The area of a sign having no such perimeter or the area of a sign having an irregular shape shall be computed by enclosing the surface area within a known geometric shape or shapes. The area of all signs in existence at the time of the enactment of these standards, whether conforming or nonconforming, shall be counted in establishing the permitted sign area of all new signs to be allowed for an individual business or premises. Where a sign is of a three dimensional or round or irregular solid shape, the largest cross section shall be used as though it were a flat surface to determine sign area.

Examples:

- B. Individual sign elements. When signs are constructed of individual elements such as lettering attached directly to the building, the sign area is calculated by an imaginary rectangle around each element or phrase that is distinctly separate.

- C. Clearance. Clearance of a sign is measured from the average grade at the ground or curb line to the lowest point of the sign.
- D. Height. Height is measured from the grade of the curb line closest to the base of the sign to the highest point of the sign. In the absence of a curb line, the edge of the street pavement shall be used.

2. Area of front building facade. When the area of the front building facade is used to determine sign area, said area shall be computed by multiplying the width of the building frontage or portion thereof by the height of the building or portion thereof which is devoted to the particular business. "False fronts" and mansard roofs may be included when calculating the area of the building facade.
